

Contact: Jon Kline
Signal Fire Films, LLC
Phone: (920) 207-7292
Email: jon@signalfirefilms.com

PO Box 1098
West Bend, WI 53095
signalfirefilms.com

SIGNAL FIRE FILMS

PRESS RELEASE

'Six Bullets' to be screened at two film festivals

Wisconsin-made short film finding success on the film festival circuit

Houston, July 9, 2007: The Pencil Head film festival announced today that it will be screening the world premiere of "Six Bullets", the short film by writer-director Graham Killeen. This marks the fourth year of the Houston-based international film festival.

"It's really exciting to be gathering this kind of momentum so quickly," confessed Killeen. "This is the kind of success we've been working so hard for."

This announcement comes on the heels of the short film's selection in another film festival, the Independents' Film Festival in Tampa, Florida. The Education Channel will televise the fourteenth annual IFF in the fall with presentations throughout the month of September, culminating in a best-of-the-fest screening at the historic Tampa Theatre.

Mercedes Hacker, the festival submissions coordinator, indicated that there may be more in store for "Six Bullets". More than a dozen submissions are still pending and "the film will be submitted to several other high-profile film festivals over the next few months," she said.

Signal Fire Films, the independent film company that produced "Six Bullets", was incorporated in Wisconsin in 2004 to "create independent film with local resources and talent," according to its mission statement. Currently SFF has several other projects including a feature-length drama scheduled for production in 2008. For more information, visit <http://www.signalfirefilms.com>.

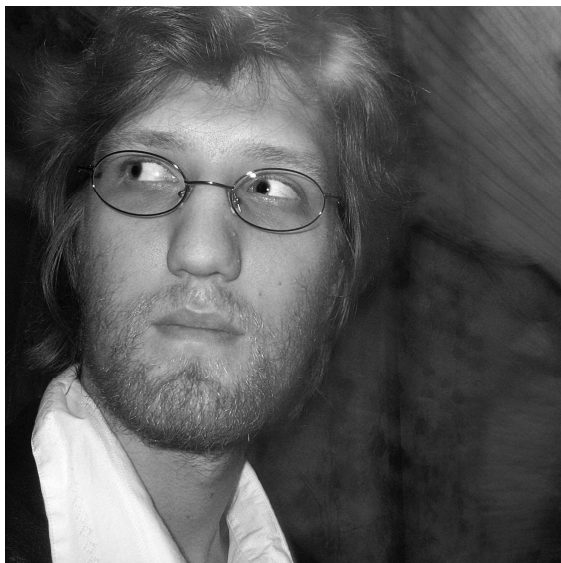

###

The following photos may be used in connection with this story.

The Witch, played by Donna Gowel-Mueller, in a still from the short film "Six Bullets"

High-resolution image available at <http://www.sixbulletsmovie.com/press/witch.jpg>

Graham Killeen, writer-director of "Six Bullets"

High-resolution image available at http://www.sixbulletsmovie.com/press/g_killeen.jpg

© 2007 Signal Fire Films, LLC. All rights reserved. Six Bullets and the Six Bullets logo are trademarks of Signal Fire Films, LLC in the United States and/or other countries.